Sexual violence is an issue everywhere, including Cornell.

Students who have experienced sexual assault by force or incapacitation since entering Cornell.*

* 2015 Campus Climate Survey, share.cornell.edu
“Cornell University will not tolerate sexual abuse, rape, sexual assault, domestic violence, intimate partner violence, stalking, sexual coercion, or other forms of sexual violence by or against students, staff, faculty, alumni or visitors.”

“We share the responsibility for creating a safer, more caring campus culture in which bias, harassment, and violence have no place—and every member of our community is free to flourish.”

Cornell University Policy 6.4, Prohibited Discrimination, Protected-Status Harassment, Sexual Harassment, and Sexual Assault and Violence.
Affirmative Consent

Affirmative consent is a knowing, voluntary, and mutual decision among all participants to engage in sexual activity. Consent can be given by words or actions, as long as those words or actions create clear permission regarding willingness to engage in the sexual activity.

Silence or lack of resistance, in and of itself, does not demonstrate consent. The definition of consent does not vary based upon a participant’s sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, or gender expression.

Understanding Sexual Violence at Cornell

SEXUAL ASSAULT IS EVERYONE'S ISSUE!
How to support a friend

(after sexual assault or abuse)

- Believe what you are told; offer support.
- Understand that there is a wide variety of ways in which someone may respond to having experienced sexual violence.
- Ask what they need.
- Provide options, rather than tell them what to do or who to contact.
- Don’t ask questions that imply judgment or fault (e.g., “were you drinking?” or “why didn’t you just leave?”)
- You don’t need the details of the incident; learn enough to help direct them to appropriate options and resources.
- Know what campus resources are available.
Signs of Unhealthy Relationships

• Feeling anxious around the other person
• Feeling trapped
• Lying
• Controlling behavior
• Mistrust
• Isolation
• Overly jealous behavior
• Lack of choices and options
• Isolation
• Stalking
• Manipulation
• Emotional or physical abuse
Incapacitation

If someone has had enough alcohol or other drugs to impair their decision-making skills, they may not have the capacity to consent.

Signs of intoxication & incapacitation:

- slurring
- stumbling
- spilling drinks
- sleepiness
- sleeping
- passed out
- unconscious
